Our consistent growth in volumes and global retail presence is testament to the company being on track to realise its vision of becoming the first premium global consumer brand from India. We strengthened our product portfolio with the launch of the all new Classic 350. The motorcycle takes forward the legacy of its legendary predecessor while significantly elevating the ride experience. The all-new Classic 350 has received resounding response from consumers across the country. At VE Commercial Vehicles, we continued to deliver on our sustained growth momentum backed by a robust recovery in HD, LMD and Bus segments. Overall, with the market picking up over the festive season, consumer sentiment significantly improving over the year, we see that demand continues to be strong and outstripping supply. With the semiconductor and supply chain issue expected to ease off over the next quarter, we are optimistic and poised for growth.”

Speaking about Royal Enfield’s business through the quarter, B. Govindarajan, Executive Director, Royal Enfield said, “While this quarter was impacted by the ongoing global shortage of semiconductor chips, we have remained engaged with our suppliers to mitigate the situation and maximize supplies. Moving forward, we foresee the supply chain situation improving gradually and expect the availability of parts to increase beginning Q3-FY22 which will enable us to further ramp up production. During this quarter, our commitment towards nurturing the spirit of pure motorcycling underscored our initiatives. Our focus on fostering riding subcultures saw Royal Enfield mark its debut in motorsports with the Continental GT Cup - a unique retro track-racing initiative. Launched in partnership with JK Motorsports, the Continental GT Cup sits at the intersection of increasing interest in motorcycle track racing, and the need for accessible forms of racing and training in India. Continental GT Cup season 1 was kickstarted to resounding response from racing enthusiasts at the Kari Motor Speedway and Racetrack earlier this month.
